

POSITION STATEMENT: TELEHEALTH

The American Association of Nurse Practitioners® (AANP) supports the provision of health care services via technology – commonly called telehealth or telemedicine – and holds that these health care services are not a separate specialty or the practice of any one profession. Health care provided via technology should be recognized, regulated and reimbursed on parity with the same services delivered in person. AANP endorses the use of the term “telehealth.”

© American Association of Nurse Practitioners, Board of Directors, 2019