Ernest N. Morial Convention Center
Room 243-245
Breakfast will be provided by the Association.

Program Description
Establish the urgency to understand that obesity is a disease that needs to be treated like other chronic, progressive diseases. Discuss the underlying physiology that leads to weight regain after weight loss with lifestyle changes alone. Review recommendations from national medical societies on the appropriate use of anti-obesity medication. Discuss data from select trials that evaluated a GLP-1 RA as a chronic weight-management therapy in patients with overweight and obesity. Review dosing and administration information and prescribing tips.

This program is sponsored by Novo Nordisk.
This is a promotional education presentation; it will not be certified for continuing medical education credit.
