History of FAANP

The Fellows of the American Association of Nurse Practitioners (FAANP) impacts national and global health by engaging recognized nurse practitioner (NP) leaders who make outstanding contributions to clinical practice, research, education, or policy to enhance the AANP mission. From invitational Think Tanks to the Mentorship Program, FAANP is dedicated to advancing the NP profession.

The Fellows of the American Association of Nurse Practitioners (FAANP) program was established by the American Academy of Nurse Practitioners (AANP) in 2000 to recognize nurse practitioner leaders who have made outstanding contributions to health care through nurse practitioner (NP) clinical practice, research, education, or policy and to provide a forum through which to extend and enhance such efforts. In 2013, FAANP became Fellows of the American Association of Nurse Practitioners with the merger of two national NP organizations. Priority initiatives of FAANP are the development of leadership and mentorship programs for nurse practitioners and nurse practitioner students. All active members maintain current membership in both AANP and FAANP. The FAANP leadership reports to the AANP Board of Directors.

Penny Kaye Jensen, DNP, FNP-C, FAAN, FAANP

Dr. Jensen is a practicing Nurse Practitioner at the Outpatient Primary Care Clinics at the Veteran's Administration Medical Center in Salt Lake City. She is currently detailed to the Department of Veterans Central Office in Washington, DC and is serving as the National APRN Health Policy Liaison for the Veterans Health Administration, Office of Nursing Services. She utilized her health policy and advanced practice nursing expertise, as well as her strong leadership skills, in steering VHA's national agenda to remove variations in APRN practice that exists across VHA due to disparate state regulations. She formulated a detailed national implementation plan for full practice authority which would allow APRNs to function at the top of their education, training and certification. This reduces the effects of national health care provider shortages on VA staffing levels as well as enhance access in underserved areas.

Throughout her career, Dr. Jensen has been a strong advocate and leader in nursing and NP issues on international, national, state, and local levels including: representing CGFNS International on the Board of Trustees and International APRN Committee from 2014-2017, American Academy of Nurse Practitioners President from 2010-2012, President of the Utah Nurse Practitioners, AANP State Representative for Utah, President of Gamma Rho (Sigma) for the University of Utah, and officer positions with Iota Iota (Sigma) at Brigham Young University.

Dr. Jensen's talents and investments go beyond health care to her larger community, encompassing initiatives with the Junior League of Salt Lake City, and her investment with the development and execution of the Olympic Games in Salt Lake City in 2002. The 2002 Olympics was the first-time NPs were utilized as providers in Olympic history. This decision resulted from Dr. Jensen's presentation of evidence based practice outcomes to International Olympic Game Committee (IOC).

She has attended innumerable National Health Policy Fellowships and speaks routinely on health care reform, access to care, professional issues, and health policy and politics. Dr. Jensen was asked to brief a panel of U.S. congressional officials on the role of nurse practitioners in the medical home model. She has participated in the development of several position papers and white papers on various health care and professional topics.

Additionally, Dr. Jensen has represented AANP at the White House on numerous occasions, including the unveiling of President Obama's Healthcare Reform Bill. She worked closely with First Lady Michelle Obama's office on her "Joining Forces" initiative with the Veterans Health Administration, Office of Nursing Services.

She has received numerous awards and accolades for her scholarship, expertise, and contributions in virtually every venue in which she has invested.
